

October is national dv awareness month. Did you know that 1 in 4 women will experience dv in her lifetime? We need to seek solutions, keep the conversation going and remind the world that violence against women is unacceptable.

We are OASIS SHELTER HOME and we are committed to helping survivors of domestic and sexual violence in our community and throughout our state.

Beyond physical injuries, survivors may suffer devastating psychological effects including anxiety, PTSD and depression. Because the abuser is often someone they love or someone they depend on financially they often stay – or return to them. In Oregon a third of the women surveyed said that they had experienced violence in their relationship.

What is the solution? Pledge to support survivors. You can make a commitment to educate yourself and others about this problem by raising awareness, speaking up, helping a friend at risk and acting as an engaged bystander we can work together to help women live lives free from violence.
